The National Coalition Against Domestic Violence (NCADV) is proud to list the "Voices Against Violence." Members of this media coalition are joining the NCADV and the general public in the campaign against domestic violence.

The committee is in name only and requires no personal commitment other than the celebrity lending their name to the cause. While it is in name only, some of the celebrities have lent their voice and image in public service announcements to further the cause. The "Voices Against Violence" are listed here.
